the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million (1990–1999) and the number of people in the public sector has increased by 2.5 million (1990–1999).

There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the quality of public services and to ensure that the public sector is efficient and effective. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of performance indicators and the establishment of public sector bodies.

The public sector is also facing a number of challenges, including a growing demand for services, a need to improve the quality of services, and a need to ensure that the public sector is efficient and effective.
