The study was conducted using a quantitative research design. Data was collected from a sample of 100 participants using a survey questionnaire. The data was then analyzed using statistical software to determine the relationships between the variables.

The results of the study show that there is a significant positive relationship between the variables. This finding is consistent with the previous research in the field. The implications of the findings suggest that the research has practical applications in the field.

In conclusion, the study has shown that the research objectives have been achieved. The findings provide valuable insights into the topic and have implications for future research.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is expected to increase by 1.5 billion (United Nations 1994).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of children in the 1990s. The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) has been instrumental in this regard, and has produced a series of reports on the state of the world's children (UNICEF 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994). These reports have highlighted the need for a new approach to children's rights, one that is based on the principle of the best interests of the child.

The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC) is a landmark document in this regard. It was adopted by the United Nations General Assembly in 1989, and has been ratified by over 100 countries. The UNCRC sets out a series of rights for children, including the right to life, the right to health, the right to education, and the right to participate in decisions that affect them.

The UNCRC is a comprehensive document, and it covers a wide range of issues. It is a landmark document in the history of children's rights, and it has been instrumental in bringing about a new awareness of the needs of children in the 1990s.
