the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are undernourished has increased from 600 million to 800 million (FAO 1996).

There are a number of reasons why the world's population is becoming more undernourished. First, the world's population is growing rapidly. The world population is projected to reach 6 billion by the year 2000, and to reach 8 billion by the year 2025 (UNEP 1992).

Second, the world's population is becoming more urban. In 1990, 54% of the world's population lived in urban areas. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 60% (UNEP 1992).

Third, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food imports. In 1990, the world's population imported 10% of its food. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Fourth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food aid. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from aid. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Fifth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from developed countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from developed countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Sixth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from industrialized countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from industrialized countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Seventh, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from developed countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from developed countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Eighth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from industrialized countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from industrialized countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Ninth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from developed countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from developed countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Tenth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from industrialized countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from industrialized countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Eleventh, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from developed countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from developed countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Twelfth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from industrialized countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from industrialized countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Thirteenth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from developed countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from developed countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Fourteenth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from industrialized countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from industrialized countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Fifteenth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from developed countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from developed countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

Sixteenth, the world's population is becoming more dependent on food from industrialized countries. In 1990, the world's population received 10% of its food from industrialized countries. By the year 2000, this figure is projected to rise to 20% (UNEP 1992).

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased by 1.1 million (Office for National Statistics 2000). The number of people aged 65 and over is projected to increase to 6.5 million by 2020, and the number of people aged 75 and over to 4.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the health and social care needs of older people. The Department of Health (1999) has set out a strategy for the NHS to meet the needs of older people. The strategy is based on the following principles: (1) to ensure that older people have access to the services they need; (2) to ensure that older people are treated with respect and dignity; (3) to ensure that older people are able to live independently; and (4) to ensure that older people are able to participate in the decisions that affect their lives.

The Department of Health (1999) has also set out a number of key objectives for the NHS to meet the needs of older people. These objectives are: (1) to improve the health and social care of older people; (2) to ensure that older people have access to the services they need; (3) to ensure that older people are treated with respect and dignity; (4) to ensure that older people are able to live independently; and (5) to ensure that older people are able to participate in the decisions that affect their lives.

The Department of Health (1999) has also set out a number of key actions for the NHS to meet the needs of older people. These actions are: (1) to improve the health and social care of older people; (2) to ensure that older people have access to the services they need; (3) to ensure that older people are treated with respect and dignity; (4) to ensure that older people are able to live independently; and (5) to ensure that older people are able to participate in the decisions that affect their lives.

The Department of Health (1999) has also set out a number of key outcomes for the NHS to meet the needs of older people.
