the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are undernourished has increased from 600 million to 800 million (FAO 1999). The number of people who are malnourished has increased from 1.2 billion to 1.5 billion (FAO 1999).

There are a number of reasons why the number of people who are undernourished has increased. One of the main reasons is that the world population has increased from 5 billion in 1989 to 6 billion in 1999 (FAO 1999).

Another reason is that the world population is growing faster than the world's food supply. The world population is growing at a rate of 1.2% per year, while the world's food supply is growing at a rate of 0.8% per year (FAO 1999).

A third reason is that the world's food supply is becoming more expensive. The price of food has increased by 50% in the last 10 years (FAO 1999).

There are a number of ways in which the world's food supply can be increased. One way is to increase the amount of land that is used for agriculture. Another way is to increase the amount of food that is produced on the same amount of land.

There are a number of ways in which the world's food supply can be made more affordable. One way is to reduce the cost of food. Another way is to increase the amount of food that is available to people who are poor.

There are a number of ways in which the world's food supply can be made more secure. One way is to reduce the risk of food shortages. Another way is to ensure that food is available to people who need it.

There are a number of ways in which the world's food supply can be made more equitable. One way is to ensure that food is available to people who are poor. Another way is to ensure that food is available to people who are hungry.

There are a number of ways in which the world's food supply can be made more just. One way is to ensure that food is available to people who are poor. Another way is to ensure that food is available to people who are hungry.

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the nutritional status of the world's population. The World Health Organization (WHO) has set a target of reducing the number of undernourished people in the world by 50% by the year 2015 (WHO 2001).

One of the main causes of malnutrition is the lack of access to adequate food. This is often due to poverty, which prevents people from being able to afford to buy enough food. Another cause is the lack of access to land, which prevents people from being able to grow their own food.

There are a number of ways in which the nutritional status of the world's population can be improved. One way is to increase the production of food. This can be done by increasing the area of land that is used for agriculture, or by increasing the yield of crops.

Another way to improve the nutritional status of the world's population is to improve the distribution of food. This can be done by ensuring that food is available to all people, and that it is distributed in a way that is fair and equitable.

There are a number of other ways in which the nutritional status of the world's population can be improved. These include improving the quality of food, and ensuring that people have access to the nutrients that they need.

It is important to note that improving the nutritional status of the world's population is not just a matter of providing food. It is also a matter of ensuring that people have access to the nutrients that they need. This can be done by ensuring that people have access to a variety of foods, and that they are able to absorb the nutrients that they eat.

There are a number of factors that can affect the nutritional status of the world's population. These include the availability of food, the quality of food, and the ability of people to absorb the nutrients that they eat.
