the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has increased by 1.5 billion (United Nations 1999). The number of children in the world who are under 5 years of age has increased by 1 billion in the same period. The number of children in the world who are under 15 years of age is now 2.5 billion (United Nations 1999).

There is a growing concern that the rapid increase in the number of children in the world is leading to a decline in the quality of life for children. This is because the rapid increase in the number of children is leading to a decline in the resources available for each child. This is particularly true in developing countries, where the resources available for each child are already limited. This is a major concern for the world's leaders, who are trying to find ways to improve the quality of life for children in the world.

One of the ways to improve the quality of life for children is to improve the quality of the environment. This is because a clean and healthy environment is essential for the well-being of children. This is particularly true in developing countries, where the environment is often polluted and the air is dirty. This is a major concern for the world's leaders, who are trying to find ways to improve the quality of the environment for children in the world.

Another way to improve the quality of life for children is to improve the quality of the education system. This is because a good education is essential for the well-being of children. This is particularly true in developing countries, where the education system is often poor and the quality of the education is low. This is a major concern for the world's leaders, who are trying to find ways to improve the quality of the education system for children in the world.

There are many other ways to improve the quality of life for children, but these are the three most important. The world's leaders are trying to find ways to improve the quality of life for children in the world, and these are the three most important ways. the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has increased by 1.2 billion (United Nations 1999). The number of people in the world who are 65 years of age and over has increased by 150 million in the same period. The number of people in the world who are 15 years of age and over has increased by 1.5 billion (United Nations 1999).

There are a number of factors which have contributed to the increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age. One of the main factors is the increase in the number of people who are surviving into old age. This is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, a decline in the number of people who are dying from infectious diseases, and a decline in the number of people who are dying from accidents and violence.

Another factor which has contributed to the increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is the increase in the number of people who are having children at a younger age. This is due to a number of factors, including a decline in the number of people who are having children at a later age, and a decline in the number of people who are having children at all.

The increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has a number of implications. One of the main implications is that it will lead to a increase in the number of people who are dependent on others for their support. This is because people who are under 15 years of age are unable to support themselves, and they will need to be supported by others.

Another implication of the increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is that it will lead to a increase in the number of people who are in need of education. This is because people who are under 15 years of age are unable to work, and they will need to be educated in order to be able to support themselves when they are older.

The increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is a major challenge for the world. It is a challenge that will require a number of solutions, including a decline in the number of people who are having children at a younger age, and a decline in the number of people who are having children at all.

One of the main solutions to the problem of the increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is to improve the quality of life for people who are under 15 years of age. This can be done by a number of ways, including providing better medical care, providing better education, and providing better living conditions.

Another solution to the problem of the increase in the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is to reduce the number of people who are having children at a younger age. This can be done by a number of ways, including providing better information about family planning, and providing better access to family planning services.
