the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million (from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1999). The public sector has also become an important employer of people with disabilities. In 1999, 1.1 million people with disabilities were employed in the public sector, compared with 0.7 million in 1980 (Department of Social Security 2000).

There are a number of reasons why the public sector has become an important employer of people with disabilities. First, the public sector has a long history of employing people with disabilities. In the 19th century, the public sector was the main employer of people with disabilities. In the 20th century, the public sector continued to be an important employer of people with disabilities. In the 21st century, the public sector has become an even more important employer of people with disabilities.

Second, the public sector has a number of advantages over the private sector when it comes to employing people with disabilities. For example, the public sector is often more willing to pay a premium for people with disabilities. This is because the public sector is often more concerned with social justice than the private sector. The public sector is also often more willing to provide training and support for people with disabilities.

Third, the public sector has a number of disadvantages over the private sector when it comes to employing people with disabilities. For example, the public sector is often more bureaucratic than the private sector. This can make it more difficult for people with disabilities to get a job in the public sector. The public sector is also often more expensive than the private sector.

Fourth, the public sector has a number of advantages over the private sector when it comes to employing people with disabilities. For example, the public sector is often more willing to pay a premium for people with disabilities. This is because the public sector is often more concerned with social justice than the private sector. The public sector is also often more willing to provide training and support for people with disabilities.

Fifth, the public sector has a number of disadvantages over the private sector when it comes to employing people with disabilities. For example, the public sector is often more bureaucratic than the private sector. This can make it more difficult for people with disabilities to get a job in the public sector. The public sector is also often more expensive than the private sector.

Sixth, the public sector has a number of advantages over the private sector when it comes to employing people with disabilities. For example, the public sector is often more willing to pay a premium for people with disabilities. This is because the public sector is often more concerned with social justice than the private sector. The public sector is also often more willing to provide training and support for people with disabilities.

Seventh, the public sector has a number of disadvantages over the private sector when it comes to employing people with disabilities. For example, the public sector is often more bureaucratic than the private sector. This can make it more difficult for people with disabilities to get a job in the public sector. The public sector is also often more expensive than the private sector.

Eighth, the public sector has a number of advantages over the private sector when it comes to employing people with disabilities. For example, the public sector is often more willing to pay a premium for people with disabilities. This is because the public sector is often more concerned with social justice than the private sector.
