the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has increased from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion (United Nations 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of children in the 21st century. The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (1989) has been signed by 112 countries, and the United Nations Millennium Declaration (2000) has set out a commitment to 'ensure that all children, everywhere, have access to primary education' (United Nations 2000, p. 1).

The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) has been instrumental in promoting the rights of children, and has been a leading voice in the development of the Convention on the Rights of the Child. UNICEF has also been a leading voice in the development of the Millennium Declaration, and has been instrumental in the development of the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) Strategy for the 21st Century (UNICEF 2000).

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are undernourished has increased from 600 million to 800 million (FAO 1999). The number of people who are malnourished has increased from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion (FAO 1999).

There are a number of reasons why the number of people who are undernourished has increased. One of the main reasons is that the world population has increased. The world population is now over 6 billion and is expected to reach 9 billion by the year 2050 (FAO 1999).

Another reason why the number of people who are undernourished has increased is that the world's food supply is not keeping pace with the world's population. The world's food supply is estimated to be 1.5 billion tonnes per year, which is not enough to feed the world's population of 6 billion people (FAO 1999).

A third reason why the number of people who are undernourished has increased is that the world's food supply is not distributed evenly. Some countries have a surplus of food, while others have a shortage. This is because of differences in the world's food supply and demand (FAO 1999).

There are a number of ways in which the world's food supply can be increased. One way is to increase the world's food production. This can be done by increasing the world's food supply and demand (FAO 1999).

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million (from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995). The public sector has become a major employer in the UK, and this has implications for the way in which the public sector is managed and the way in which it is funded.
