The first of these is the fact that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and as such, it is not possible to understand it by looking at its parts in isolation. The system is a whole, and its behavior is determined by the interactions between its parts. This is a fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional engineering and design.

The second of these is the fact that the system is not static. It is a dynamic system, and its behavior changes over time. This is another fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional engineering and design.

The first of these is the fact that the world is not a uniform whole, but a collection of diverse and often conflicting interests. The second is the fact that the world is not a static entity, but a dynamic one, constantly changing and evolving. The third is the fact that the world is not a simple, linear system, but a complex one, with many interconnected parts and processes.

These three facts are the foundation of the world as we know it. They are the things that make the world so interesting and so challenging. They are the things that make the world so full of life and so full of possibility.
