the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation, 2000). The prevalence of mental health problems in the UK is estimated to be 10% (Mental Health Foundation, 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems. The UK government has set out a strategy for mental health care (Department of Health, 1999). This strategy aims to improve the lives of people with mental health problems by providing them with the best possible care and support. The strategy also aims to reduce the stigma and discrimination that people with mental health problems often experience.

One of the key challenges in mental health care is the need to provide care and support that is tailored to the needs of individual people. This is because mental health problems can affect people in different ways, and the needs of people with mental health problems can vary significantly. Therefore, it is important to have a range of services and support available to meet the needs of different people.

One of the ways in which this can be achieved is through the use of self-help materials. Self-help materials can provide people with information and advice that can help them to manage their mental health problem. Self-help materials can also provide people with support and encouragement that can help them to cope with their mental health problem.

There are a number of different types of self-help materials that can be used. These include books, leaflets, brochures, and videos. Self-help materials can be used in a number of different ways. They can be used to provide people with information and advice, or they can be used to provide people with support and encouragement.
