the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is expected to increase by 1.5 billion (United Nations 1994).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of children in the 1990s. The United Nations has developed the Convention on the Rights of the Child (1989) and the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) has developed the Innocent Initiative (1990). The Innocent Initiative is a global strategy for the protection and development of children, which is based on the Convention on the Rights of the Child.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million (1990–1999) and is projected to increase by a further 1.5 million by 2010 (Office for National Statistics, 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop strategies to meet the needs of the ageing population. The Department of Health (1999) has identified the need to develop a new paradigm of care for the ageing population, one that is based on the concept of 'active ageing'.

The concept of 'active ageing' is defined by the World Health Organization (1999) as:

...the process of developing and maintaining the functional abilities that enable people to participate in society to the greatest extent possible as they age (World Health Organization, 1999, p. 1).

The concept of 'active ageing' is a broad one, encompassing a wide range of issues, including physical, mental, and social well-being.
