the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995 (Department of Health 1996).

There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the efficiency of the public sector, and to ensure that the public sector is able to deliver the services that are required by the public. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public sector organisations, and the introduction of performance targets. The aim of these initiatives is to ensure that the public sector is able to deliver the services that are required by the public, in a cost-effective and efficient manner.

One of the key challenges facing the public sector is the need to improve the efficiency of the public sector. This is a complex task, as the public sector is a large and diverse organisation. However, there are a number of ways in which the efficiency of the public sector can be improved. These include the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public sector organisations, and the introduction of performance targets.

The introduction of competition is one of the key ways in which the efficiency of the public sector can be improved. This involves the introduction of competition for the provision of public services. This can be done in a number of ways, including the introduction of competition for the provision of public services, the introduction of competition for the provision of public services, and the introduction of competition for the provision of public services.

The restructuring of public sector organisations is another key way in which the efficiency of the public sector can be improved. This involves the restructuring of public sector organisations, so that they are able to deliver the services that are required by the public, in a cost-effective and efficient manner. This can be done in a number of ways, including the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public sector organisations, and the introduction of performance targets.

This can be done in a number of ways, including the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public sector organisations, and the introduction of performance targets.

There are a number of other ways in which the efficiency of the public sector can be improved. These include the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public sector organisations, and the introduction of performance targets. The aim of these initiatives is to ensure that the public sector is able to deliver the services that are required by the public, in a cost-effective and efficient manner.
