the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million (from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1998). The public sector has become an important employer of people with mental health problems, and the number of people with mental health problems employed in the public sector has increased from 10,000 in 1980 to 20,000 in 1998 (Mental Health Foundation, 1999).

There is a growing emphasis on the importance of the public sector in providing services for people with mental health problems. The Mental Health Act 1983 (MHA) was amended in 1998 to give the Secretary of State for Health the power to make regulations for the management of people with mental health problems in the public sector. The regulations are intended to ensure that people with mental health problems are treated in a way that is consistent with the principles of the MHA.

The regulations are intended to ensure that people with mental health problems are treated in a way that is consistent with the principles of the MHA.
